Help Center ATTENTION NYCHA PARKING PERMIT HOLDERS: As of 12/1/2020, we no longer operate the following locations in the Manhattan District: 335 East 111th St 344 East 28th St Fort Washington Public School 139 Wise Towers If you purchased a permit at one of these locations, they will continue to be valid and you will receive more information from the new management company before the 2021 renewal. The Department of Transportation informs that the City is issuing temporary on-street parking permits across the city to health personnel working in hospitals during COVID-19. To obtain a parking permit, healthcare professionals should contact their hospital administrators directly. NYC DOT is extending the permit expiration for all city parking permits or temporary permits for people with disabilities and clergy that have expired or will expire in 2020. You can get information and by calling the registered information line for parking permits at 718-433-3100. The New York City Department of Parks & Recreation welcomes the use of city-owned parks for scientific research. Parks staff can help researchers choose the site, logistics, and other aspects of their research in New York. In return, Parks benefits from research, particularly what helps us better manage our recreational, cultural and natural resources. Activities requiring a research permit Any research conducted on land managed by the Parks Department requires a Allowed. Examples include observational surveys, soil sampling, vegetation sampling, insect collection, bird bands, and small mammal capture. All activities on the city park must comply with the rules and regulations of the parks. Research permits will not be granted for projects that violate these statutes. Please review all regulations before submitting your application, including prohibited and regulated uses ($1-04 and $1-05). The collection of land, rocks, artifacts, plants or their parts, animals (including insects) or their nests or eggs, from New York parks is strictly regulated. People who wish to make such collections within parks property must receive special permission to do so as part of a New York Parks Research or Wildlife Permit. Excavation, excavation, planting, installation of poles, fences, signs, or other markers must also receive special permission as part of a New York parks research permit. Additional approvals That you may need Any research involving the prosecution, possession, acquisition, or collection of wild animals (including invertebrates) must also be covered by a license from the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation to collect and possess. You can download a copy of your permit application. Please send this question to New York State DEC, not Parks. In addition, if the research involves prosecuting, holding, capturing or harvesting mammals, birds, amphibians, reptiles or fish or will have an impact on mammals or birds in any way, you must receive the approval of the Institutional Committee for the Care and Use of Animals (IACUC), if any. For information about the IACUC, visit the IACUC.org. Apply for a search permit To apply for a New York Park Search Permit, you must fill out an application form, available online or through US Mail. You can request a paper application by writing to the address below or by sending an email Research.Permits@parks.nyc.gov. Your permit application will be examined by a group of scientists, park managers and other staff on scientific merit, potential damage to park resources and potential benefit to park resources. After the review period, you will be notified if your application has been approved. Please wait up to sixty (60) days from the date of submission of the application completed for processing. Submit your New York Parks Search Permit online application now conducting searches in New York parks with a search permission If your application has been approved, you will be required to inform the direction of the site or sites where you will conduct searches 48 hours before any research activity. If you need to park vehicle on nyc parks property or drive on that property, you must receive a parking permit or access to the vehicle separate from the park management where your search is located. If you plan to install traps, poles, signs or other markers, wildlife cameras or any other equipment, each equipment must be marked as follows: New York Parks Search Permit # _____. (Fill in the number of permit). If you request the use of data owned by Parks, you must accept and sign a data sharing agreement. You will also be asked to provide the Parks with an annual report of your research activities and a copy of all the data collected by January 31st of the year following the year of leave, to be used only for management purposes. Publications arising from the use of the city park must recognize the Department of Parks & Recreation in New York City. Electronic copies of publications, including the theses and theses generated by this work, must be presented research.permits@parks.nyc.gov. Permits expire on December 31 each year. If no changes have been made to the search plan, you can request a renewal of the permit without completing a new application. Renewal shall be subject to the submission of the annual report. Any damage to New York's park resources must be repaired or mitigated. For example, all soil pits must be filled, and markings must be removed within one month of completion of the search. Any serious damage to land, vegetation or property may require a more extensive correction. For more information about search permissions, send an email research.permits@parks.nyc.gov. For hard copies of application forms Contact New York City, Department of Parks and Recreation NYC Urban Field Station 431 Walter Reed Road Fort Totten Cluster #2, Box #12 Bayside, NY 11359-1137 or email Research.Permits@parks.nyc.gov I recently received an application from a person who was granted a permit for people with disabilities. Asked if such a special parking permit allowed him to park within 15 feet of a fire hydrant? The answer is no. His special parking privileges won't protect him from a hydrant parking ticket. This investigation made me think that it might be useful to publish an article about how a person with disabilities can apply for a permit: What parking privileges are granted by permit, What privileges are still prohibited, Which class of people with disabilities is refused special parking privileges from New York? How can I apply? Here's a link to New York City's disabled parking permit application. Application for parking permit for disabled people in New York Carefully Read the instructions on the application form in their entiretyYou need: a doctor to fill out a part of the application An appointment with a city doctor designated by the Department of Health, who should certify your disability Among other requirements set out in the application Submit your completed application, all supporting documents and medical records to: PFPD 28-11 Queens Plaza No, 8th Floor,Long Island City, NY 11101-4008 Do restrictions apply? Yes. They are as follows: it is necessary to the use of a private vehicle for transportationA resident and non-resident of City can now apply. I recommend you click on the link in the next sentence and read the detailed statement of requirements contained in the DOT website. Where can I park with a permit for people with 4-08 (o)(1)(i) authorizes a vehicle operator with a valid New York City special parking identification permit to park: in any area No parking spaces, including those marked except authorized vehicles! parking meters without using an authorized payment methodIn zones No standing except loading and unloading trucks There are areas where such special parking identification permits do not authorize parking? Special parking identification permits in New York City are not allowed for parking: in a non-parking areal a general area without standing zones with limited hours (e.g. No Standing from 16:00 to 19:00)In designated spaces for ambulances and ambulanceIn a hotel loading areal a taxi stationIn a rental vehicle standIn car share parkingIn a bus stopIn a fire zoneWith 15 feet of fire hydrantIn a driveway or in a driveway a pavement or sidewalk) For double parking Any vehicle displaying an authorisation shall be used exclusively in relation to the parking of a vehicle in which the person to whom it has been issued is transported or will be transported within a reasonable period. See, 4-08 (o)(1)(iii) Here's some useful information from the NYC DOT about using the city permit City permit is a rectangular sign. Display it in full view on the driver's side dashboard. Unlike the state permit, city permit entitles drivers to park only in New York City. The city permit allows the driver to park the sidewalks on the city's roads to the maximum, even in all No Parking areas (with the exception of those marked as taxi parking); in No Parking, No Standing or Authorized Vehicles Only spaces authorized for doctors, press, diplomats and government agencies; paid parking without paying; in the areas No location, truck loading and unloading or truck loading only, except for the specified limited hours. City permit cannot be used in any No Stop area; in any No Standing area other than those listed above; in front of fire hydrants, bus stops or sidewalks. Double parking is never allowed. The city permit is valid until the expiration date printed on the permit. About six weeks before the scheduled expiration date, you'll be asked if you want to renew and verify that your registration information is still correct. Your permit will be renewed on request unless your condition requires a medical review. Comment: When you're right, FIGHT. I'm helping a client with disabilities, who lives in Massachusetts and often travels to New York, fight the NEW York DOT's refusal to honor his Massachusetts disabled parking permit. He was released a for the New York parking lot despite correctly showing his permission. He has the support of his U.S. congressman in this battle. New York does not honor New York State's disabled parking permits; nor does it honour handicap parking permits from non-residents. I am all the more in favour of many arguments under constitutional law against this draconian practice. Right now, New York officials are considering what action to take at his fighting his New York parking ticket. I'll let you know the result. What do you think about New York's practice of requiring people with disabilities to obtain a Parking Permit for Disabled People in New York; even if you have a New York State parking permit? Allowed?
